

W. P. WALTON.

THE CONVENTION

Hardin and Tyler For Governor and Lieut. Governor

Nominated by Acclamation.

OTHER NOMINATIONS.

Cleveland and Carlisle Endorsed and Sound Money Wins by 643 to 234.

The democratic convention at Louisville has not been a "quiet affair" by a long shot, and the wrangling and pulling and hauling was not a credit to the good old democratic party. To err is human, though, and when the delegates and others get back home and cool down they will forget what has been done and said and will strive harder than ever to roll up a big democratic majority in November.

The convention was organized by electing Judge W. M. Beckner temporary chairman, subsequently making Congressman Berry permanent chairman.

Mr. J. S. Owsley, Jr., an admirer of Mr. Hardin, defeated Hon. W. H. Miller, also of this place, who is a Clay man, for committee on credentials from this district. The race was so close that the chair had to decide it.

The democrats made the best platform it was possible to make. Free silver heresies were overwhelmingly swept aside and resolutions endorsing President Cleveland and Secretary Carlisle, and reaffirming the Chicago platform of 1892 were adopted by the surprising figures of 643 37-70 to 234 33-70.

The silver men made a game fight and were slow to accept defeat, but the majority was so overwhelming that no room is left to doubt that the declaration made by the convention on the money question will be accepted as conclusive and satisfactory by a united democracy.

The convention then adjourned till the evening session.

At the evening session Gen. Hardin was nominated by acclamation before the result of the first ballot was announced, Mr. Clay's name having been withdrawn. In a similar manner the Hon. R. T. Tyler, of Fulton county, was nominated for lieutenant governor, whereupon the convention adjourned until 9:30 Thursday.

The result of the first and only ballot was Hardin 408 1-2; Clay 330 1-2; Stone 76; Waterston 3.

Mr. Hardin was nominated by Judge R. J. Breckinridge, of Danville, in an able speech, and Judge James Tarvin, of Kenton county, seconded the nomination. Geo. C. Lockhart nominated Mr. Clay and the nomination was seconded by Judge I. M. Quigley, of McCracken county.

Clay's were then made for Mr. Clay who responded and made a short speech gracefully accepting the will of the convention and pledging his support to the nominee and the entire ticket. Mr. Hardin was then escorted to the front of the stage. He made a very brief speech, simply thanking the convention for the nomination.

The following nominations were made up to the time we went to press:

R. C. Ford, of Clay, for treasurer on the second ballot; L. C. Norman, of Frankfort, for auditor by acclamation; Green B. Swango, of Wolfe, for register of land office on third ballot; W. J. Hendrick, of Fleming, for attorney general.

At 4:35 p. m. no nomination for secretary of State. Hale in the lead.

—A madman named William Campbell was arrested at Clyde, N. Y. He claimed he was on his way to Washington to kill President Cleveland.

—Receiver McNulta, of the Whisky Trust, in a report to the court, shows that he has made $300,000 for the corporation during his stewardship.

—Sanford Merritt, a negro preacher, charged with incest, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Henderson. The case occupied three days of court.

—The plans for the great amphitheater for the seating of 40,000 people who are expected to witness the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight at Dallas, Texas, are about complete.

—James F. Ewing, a wealthy ex-merchant at Bowling Green, talked too much and got himself sued for $5,000 for slander. He is accused of having said all Irish will steal.

—A curious coincidence of the assessor's returns in Jefferson county, Ohio, is that there are 990 dogs in the county and 990 sheep were killed during the fiscal year, or one sheep for every dog.

—The largest telegraph office in the world is in the general post-office building, London. There are over 3,000 operators, 1,000 of whom are women. The batteries are supplied by 30,000 cells.

—Rev. J. J. Wilson, a Cumberland Presbyterian preacher, was shot to death near New Orleans by James Howell, who claimed he had been slandered. The preacher shot twice, but neither took effect.

—At North Liberty, O., James thews, a farmer, while cutting grass, fell in front of the mowing machine. He was drawn in front of the sickles and knives. When found his body had been split open.

—The two-year-old boy baby of Jeff Martin, of Powell county, found a large copperhead snake in the parlor and thinking it a plaything picked it up. The child had a narrow escape. The snake was killed.

—A three-year-old son of Curran Crouch, of Owingsville, told his mother that he was sick and wanted some medicine. The mother paid no attention to the child's request and the little fellow found a two-ounce bottle of laudanum and drank it. He died in a few hours.

—Tye Nelson, the 10-year-old son of J. E. Nelson, of Oden, Ark., blew his brains out because of brutal treatment received from his father. His father missed a monkey wrench and told the boy unless he found it he would thrash him. He failed in his search and chose death to a beating.

—Displeased by criticism, the register of the United States land office at South End, Ok., attacked the editor of a local paper with a revolver. The city marshal came along and joined in the melee. The register and the marshal are dead. The editor escaped with a painful, but not dangerous wound.

—George Alexander, of Louisville, was nominated on the fifth ballot for railroad commissioner at the convention in Louisville Monday. C. C. McChord was the contending man, Mr. McCain having withdrawn and Mr. Fulton dropped.

—Judge R. J. Breckinridge, of Danville, was chairman. Mr. J. N. Saunders, of this place, seconded the nomination of Mr. McChord. Lincoln's seven votes went to Mr. Alexander after Mr. Fulton was dropped.

—Ex-County Judge A. J. Tharp, of Estill, is suing the county for $1,787.49. He was elected to office for two terms on a platform in which he stated that he was willing to accept the office for the salary of $400 a year and relinquish all claim to the additional fees appurtenant to the office. Tharp afterward became tired of his contract, and now seeks to recover from the county the total amount of fees that would have been due him during his two terms of office.

Pen Taylor sold 48 of same character to the same party on the same terms. The farmers were all busy cutting wheat and consequently there was a small crowd in town court day.—Winchester Democrat.

—D. C. Terhune has bought 44 first class sugar mule colts, all mares but one, at from $30 to $40 per head. John and Homer Baughman delivered yesterday to J. C. Johnson 65 lambs engaged sometime ago at 4 cents. They averaged 73 pounds. Farris & Whitley bought a bunch of scrub cattle from Clayton Snow, of Cumberland county, at $3.25. They run from 850 to 900 pounds.—Advocate.

—Strictly to the point was the evidence of a woman in Maine who was striving to prove an alibi for a boy in a horse-stealing case. A witness testified that he had seen the boy at the village on that day, when the woman sprang from her seat and cried: "He wa'n't out, nuther! His pants was hangin' on the clo'es line all day!"

—Why do flocks of wild ducks and geese form a triangle when they have to fly long distances? It is because they know in that form they can cleave the air most easily. The most courageous bird takes its position at the apex of the great triangle and when it becomes weary with the heavy task another takes its place.

—When a person in the Sudan is bitten by a dog supposed to be suffering from the rabies, the animal is instantly caught, killed and cut open; the liver is taken out and slightly browned by being held to the fire, after which the whole of the organ is eaten by the patient.
